Brief business information of applicant	The economic scenario of the post-independence era in the 60's created a situation where unemployment and eviction from homes occurred when European-owned rubber estates were sold to locals who in turn fragmented and sold them for profit. In an effort to rectify the problem which resulted from fragmentation of estates, the Malaysian Indian Congress, spearheaded by the late Tun Dr. V. T. Sambanthan, and some concerned citizens, established the NLFCS to provide an opportunity for land ownership among estate workers. Plantation workers were persuaded to buy shares in the co-operative at RM 100/= per share, payable in monthly installment of RM 10. With this, the society managed to purchase its first rubber estate covering a total of 2900 acres or 1174 ha (Bukit Sidim Estate) in Kedah. From this humble beginning, today NLFCS own rubber, oil palm and coconut plantations all over the country.

Maklumat ringkas perniagaan pemohon	Senario ekonomi era pasca merdeka pada tahun 60-an mewujudkan situasi di mana pengangguran dan pengusiran dari rumah berlaku apabila ladang getah milik Eropah dijual kepada penduduk tempatan yang seterusnya membelah dan menjualnya untuk keuntungan. Dalam usaha untuk membetulkan masalah yang berpunca daripada pemecahan ladang, Kongres India Malaysia, yang diterajui oleh Allahyarham Tun Dr. V. T. Sambanthan, dan beberapa rakyat yang prihatin, menubuhkan NLFCS untuk memberi peluang pemilikan tanah di kalangan pekerja ladang. Pekerja ladang dipujuk untuk membeli saham dalam koperasi pada harga RM 100/= sesaham, dibayar secara ansuran bulanan sebanyak RM 10. Dengan ini, pertubuhan itu berjaya membeli ladang getah pertamanya seluas 2900 ekar atau 1174 ha (Ladang Bukit Sidim) di Kedah. Dari permulaan yang sederhana ini, hari ini NLFCS memiliki ladang getah, kelapa sawit dan kelapa di seluruh negara.
